OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON, D C, Feb 27, 1867.

There is a tremendous outcry here for a Tariff bill, yet, as I write this letter it looks very much as if Congress would adjourn without passing one The pressure is so powerful, however, that it may be passed in the closing hours, and the President may sign it The Chronicle, published here as a sort of Congressional organ, attributes nearly all the suffering in the country to the failure of Congress at its first session to pass a Tariff bill The real difficulty lies within a small compass The Senate fixed up a fair bill, on the whole. If the there were any errors they were upon the side of high rates. Senator Williams declared in the Senate that he was willing to vote for a fair measure—like that reported from the Finance Committee—but he was not willing to play into the hands of the manufacturers in a way that would give them all they want Now the trouble is that the Ways and Means Committee have increased the rates of the Tariff bill agreed to by the Senate, and in this manner the whole bill is in danger. A small class of Republicans in each House are opposed to any higher duties, and if badgered too much by the crazy protectionists they will stand by the President in case he should veto the Tariff bill. There are certain Republicans in Congress who act precisely as if they were manufacturers, or the agents of manufacturers. Kelly, of Philadelphia, for example, would advocate duties of 100 per cent. on every manufactured article I have no doubt that such men, though doubtless entirely honest, by their altruism destroy their influence. The West is aiding in the passage of the new Tariff bill, because agricultural products are protected in it. If it were not for that fact this bill would have never had a chance The item of wool in the bill brought to its support a large number in each House. But even with that in, some of the leading Western Republicans oppose it.

The report of the committee specially appointed to investigate the whisky frauds has been made, and some startling facts have been given to the country. It is estimated that not more than one gallon in eight pays the Government tax The frauds of the distillers are shocking. The law as it stands takes the salary of the Government Inspector out of the pockets of the distiller. Each distillery must pay the expense of supporting an inspector. One inspector who had connived at various frauds told the committee frankly that he was working in the interest of his employer! In some cases $50, and in others even as high as $100 per day was paid the dishonest assessor or inspector for his connivance at fraud The price of good whisky is from $1 40 to $1 75 per gallon in the markets of New York and Philadelphia. The Government tax alone is $2. It costs from 35 to 45 cents to manufacture, so that the price should be as high as $3 40, without allowing anything for profit. Anybody can see that there is no chance for the honest distiller. Yet, in spite of these facts, the Committee of Ways and Means will not consent to a reduction of the tax. If it could be reduced to 50 cents per gallon it might be collected. The reply is that even at a tax of 50 cents, illicit manufacture would pay. It is a well known fact that three times more 25 cent currency notes are counterfeited than of the 50 cent pieces. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue appeared before the committee and protested against any reduction. Whisky could better pay a tax, he said, than any other article. If the Government could contrive to collect it, all taxes and duties on sugar, coffee and tea might easily be dispensed with. If cessation of the law could be stopped a hundred millions might easily be added to the revenue of the Government.

Another committee has made a report which will startle the whole country—the House Committee on Public Expenditures, which has been investigating frauds in the New York Custom House. In looking over their evidence I am not surprised that Preston King drowned himself The Custom House of New York must have long been a sink of iniquity. When the President appointed Mr. Smythe collector of the port the general exclamation was, "Now at least we have an honest collector!" All but the "honest." He seems to have been surrounded by scores of needy politicians and to have considered it proper for him to make as much money out of the Custom House—outside of his salary—as was possible, and to divide it among his friends. This is the brightest trait in his character, that of generosity Certainly when he stole he shared with his friends Some of the evidence points directly at Senator Patterson, the son-in-law of the President, as one of those persons who profited by the division of the spoils. Another person is a son of Senator Doolittle.

People are curious to see if the President will retain Smythe in office—if McCulloch, Secretary of the Treasury, will consent that he shall remain after such a horrible exposure There is no doubt that if the Republicans in Congress become satisfied of the necessity of removing the President, they will make use of the testimony in Mr. Hulburd's custom house report. And why shouldn't they? If the President clings to a dishonest officer—if some of his ill-gotten gains are actually traced to the President's household, why should not the fact weigh with the Senate in case of an impeachment? But Smythe is the man most affected by the report and it is difficult to see how he manages to stand up under it. I hear that there are Republicans who will defend him just as there are those who will defend Jordan, the Solicitor of the Treasury, for his bad practices.

The President was made nearly crazy all last week, and even a day or two in this, by the visits of "great men" who begged him—some to sign the reconstruction bill and others to veto it. Bingham, of Ohio, had a long interview with him on Saturday last for the sole purpose of begging him to sign it A number of leading war Democrats also urged him to do it and save the country. But on the other hand, every member of his cabinet, save Stanton, importuned him not to give way, for it was crucifixion to them if he should Tam told that Seward urged him to stick to his old policy, and assured him of a glorious triumph at the next election! One would suppose that the President was sick of his ninety day promises and promphets by this time Randall, the Postmaster General, was the more honest, for when asked by the President what he would advise him to say, he said: "I advise you to veto the bill, and then, after that, if it is passed, to refuse to execute it. Then it is probable enough that you will be impeached and removed. I would let them do it, and I would appeal from them to the people!" This was bold, but it was silly advice, for what would the people care for Andy Johnson? Not a farthing. If the Republicans, in such a contingency, should fear for the final result, they would nominate Gen Grant, and though he might not be as radical as they would desire, still Johnsonism would find no favor with him He would execute the law without a moment's hesitation. If he strikes at anything in the principles of the Radicals, it is negro suffrage, and it is not at the punishment of rebels He says the South needs governing by the armies of the country for a time longer Johnson by that time would be among the mountains of Tennessee a broken down tailor, and nobody would ask after his welfare—not even his Copperhead friends.

The bill granting lands to the State of Oregon for the construction of a military road from the Dalles on the Columbia river, by way of Camp Watson, Carson City, Mormon Basin, etc, to Snake river opposite Fort Boise, has passed both Houses, and when signed by the President (if he has not already signed it), will become a law.

O Humason's appointment as Collector at the port of Astoria, has been rejected by the Senate in executive session.

Mr. Henderson, member of the House, leaves Congressional life with the regrets of his associates. Though not bred to politics or statesmanship, he has made an excellent Representative and has won the respect of the House His successor will be welcomed by the Republicans of the east Senator Corbett too, will find a welcome awaiting him in the new Senate. Oregon is most ably represented (as I have often said) in the Senate by Mr Williams. There are few men there who are his equals in debate and in the business legislation of that body.

As I close this letter the two Houses are in the excitement of the closing days of a session—sitting literally night and day—from 10 o'clock in the morning till almost midnight There is at this time a prospect of an all day session next Sunday; but if the President and the Copperheads are good natured, it may possibly be avoided.

STEAMER DAY.

Marriage and Divorce.

The following article is from the Round Table of February 23d. It was written in Oregon, and partly for this reason and partly on account of its intrinsic merits, we transfer it to our columns.

In the history of the world nothing is more apparent than the uniform relation between public morals—civic virtue—and the degree in which female chastity is esteemed, and the marriage relation held sacred, by any community of people In the expression, "brave men and chaste women," there is more than meets the eye One is the counterpart, out growth, and necessity of the other, and taken together they constitute the first element and necessity of a good and great people.

Prominent among the social phenomena which accompanied and accelerated the decline and fall of the Roman Empire was the fatal facility of divorce, and the consequent indifference, and aversion to marriage ending in an indiscriminate and unhallowed intercourse between the sexes. In the early history of this splendid people divorce was unknown and polygamy absolutely prohibited But with the growth of wealth and luxury, the deterioration of the race by the absorption of Asiatic blood and manners, came a gradual relaxation of the once controlling religious sentiment and feeling—a steady decline of the old republican morality—a quiet yielding of the old laws and customs under the influence and training of which Rome had become the mistress and law-giver of the world, and the name of her people a synonym for power and honor. The Tiber became polluted by the impure waters of the Syrian Orontes. The taint of Asiatic luxury and depravity had been transplanted from the grove of Daphne, the stews of Antioch, and Canopus, the sewer of the vicious Alexandria, to Imperial Rome. De Quincy, in discoursing of this period, says

"Probably in the time of Nero not one man in six was of pure Roman descent. And the consequences were suitable. Scarcely a family has come down to our knowledge that could not in the generation we enumerate a long catalogue of divorces in its own contracted circle Every man had married a series of wives, every woman a series of husbands. Even in the palace of Augustus who wished to be viewed as an exemplar or ideal model of domestic purity, every principal member of his family was tainted in that way, himself in a manner and a degree infamous even at that time. For the first four hundred years of Rome not one divorce had been granted or asked, although the statute which allowed of this indulgence had always been in force. But in the age succeeding to the civil wars men and women 'married,' says one author, 'with a view to divorce, and divorced in order to marry.' Many of these changes happened within the year, especially if the lady had a large fortune, which always went with her and procured her choice of transient husbands.' And 'can one imagine,' asks the same writer, 'that the fair one who changed her husband every quarter strictly kept her matrimonial faith all the three months?' Thus the very fountain of all the 'household charities' and household virtues was polluted And after that we need little wonder at the assassinations, poisonings, and forging of wills which then laid waste the domestic life of the Romans.

To the same effect is the testimony and authority of Gibbon:

"When the Roman matrons became the equal and voluntary companions of their lords, a new jurisprudence was introduced, that marriage, like all other partnerships, might be dissolved by the abdication of one of the associates. In three centuries of prosperity and corruption this principle was enlarged to frequent practice and pernicious abuse. Passion, interest or caprice suggested daily motives for the dissolution of marriage; a word, a sign, a message, a letter, the mandate of a freedman, declared the separation, the most tender of human connections was degraded to a transient society of profit or pleasure. According to the various conditions of life, both sexes alternately felt the disgrace and injury, an inconstant spouse transferred her wealth to a new family, abandoning a numerous, perhaps a spurious, progeny to the paternal care and authority of her late husband; a beautiful virgin might be dismissed to the world, old, indigent and friendless, but the reluctance of the Romans, when they were pressed to marriage by Augustus, sufficiently marks that the prevailing institutions were least favorable to the males.

"A specious theory is confuted by this free and perfect experiment, which demonstrates that the liberty of divorce does not contribute to happiness and virtue. The facility of separation would destroy all mutual confidence, and inflame every trifling dispute; the minute difference between a husband and a stranger, which might so easily be removed, might still more easily be forgotten; and the matron who in five years can submit to the embraces of eight husbands, must cease to reverence the chastity of her own person."

Every careful observer of American society must see that, with more or less rapidity, we are drifting into the condition of the Roman people, as portrayed in the above extracts. The wholesome and comfortable doctrine of our ancestors—and, for that matter, of all Christendom—that marriage was a necessary and holy relation founded in nature and prescribed by God, adopted by religion and law, for the maintenance and welfare of society, is fast giving place to the "new jurisprudence" of the dissolute Romans, "that marriage, like all other partnerships, might be dissolved by the abdication of one of the associates."

Our law writers and administrators have been so accustomed to speak of this relation as only a civil contract, that insensibly the public conscience and judgment have come to consider it in that light and to treat it accordingly. Marriage being founded in consent of the parties, may be said to arise out of contract, but when consummated or executed it is no longer a contract but a legal relation, beyond the control of the parties to it as much as that of parent and child This relation imparts a status or condition to the parties which it is in the interest of society to maintain and preserve. On the sanctity and stability of this relation depend the existence and integrity of the family, the corner stone of a well regulated and virtuous community, and also the chastity of woman, without which no people were ever good or great.

Blinded by this sophism, that marriage is only a contract, overlooking the public good and seeking to provide for the necessities, supposed or real, of the individual, our legislatures have gone on multiplying the causes of divorce and facilitating the means of obtaining a separation until, practically, it has come to this—the continuance of a marriage depends upon the continuing consent of the parties to the relation Those causes are principally adultery, cruelty, desertion, indignities to the mind or body, failure to support on the part of the husband, and, in some States, to the discretion of the judge

But comprehensive as this catalogue of causes of divorce may be, the way in which the law is administered makes it more comprehensive still. Generally a suit for divorce is ex parte The defendant either has no actual knowledge of the proceeding or connives at it as a means of legitimating a fraudulent separation, already tacitly or expressly arranged between the parties, with a view on the part of one or both to a new partnership of "profit or pleasure," miscalled a marriage In this way desertion, what Gibbon calls "the abdication of one of the associates," in the marriage is established whenever the parties desire it. The fact is that, in ex parte suits, more than one-half of the alleged causes of divorce are untrue in point of fact, or made up by the deliberate conduct of the parties, with a view of procuring a legal sanction to a voluntary separation.

This evil is every way enhanced and aggravated by the swarms of needy and unscrupulous lawyers in the country The fees they make out of this commerce in broken marriages and ruined households induces them to labor for legislation favoring divorce, and to be continually on the alert to pick up a case of "matrimonial difficulty," and nurse it until it can be introduced at court Waiving the question of for what causes divorces ought to be granted—and we would not for a moment be understood to imply that there are not frequently such causes—there can be no doubt but that some efficient means ought to be adopted to prevent their being obtained fraudulently or without the knowledge of the defendant To this end, the State might be made a defendant in all cases, and it might be made the duty of its attorney to make a proper defense to the suit when necessary.

But manners and opinion have much to do with this matter. The loose law and its looser administration are but the natural outgrowth of a lax public sentiment. Years of prosperity and corruption are telling upon us as upon the Romans of Nero's time. From Paris comes to us that taint of social depravity and indifference to the purity of woman and the integrity of the family that Rome received from Asia With French fashions in cookery and dress we import largely of French manners and morals particularly in all that pertains to social life. If a war with France would have the effect to cut off the commerces and cure us of this unwholesome tendency it might prove a public blessing.

In our large cities, as in Paris the men, and particularly the rich and the professions, avoid marriage. In proportion as this practice prevails concubinage and prostitution are directly encouraged and fostered. Hotel life is substituted for the private home and hearth A divorce works no less of estate to either party and if it should, in a particular case, a resort to a new locality is a sufficient remedy No penalty is imposed upon the guilty party and a new marriage is open to both alike The facility for obtaining divorces and the leniency with which such acts are regarded by society is a prime cause of improvident and improper marriages and thus the disease makes the food it feeds upon As in any other business partnership the parties know that by hook or crook they can be relieved from it, whenever it becomes irksome or distasteful or in the way of some new passion. Fancy or lust, It is more than time that society were aroused to the threatening importance of this The precedents we have cited are not to be, they are certain at no remote day to be upon us.

A Model Convention.

In the State of Kentucky there is a meeting and assimilation of Northern Democracy and Southern rebellion, and the political compound thus generated is modern Democracy in all its perfection. A few weeks ago the Democrats of that State held a nominating Convention, and the proceedings had thereat, beautifully illustrate the character of the party. The Cincinnati Gazette gives a full report of the performances. It appears that the intention at first was to nominate W. C. Preston, a returned rebel General, for Governor, but he declined, and the loss was finally made good by placing two rebel Colonels on the ticket. After Preston had declined, he was called on for a speech,—his Confederate Democratic friends being determined to honor him as far as he would permit them to do it. He made his appearance amid tumultuous applause, and proceeded to declare that he could "not recognize the name rebel in an offensive sense in Kentucky," —a thing which his audience also could not do. He thought that "Kentucky had been peculiarly the creature of oppression and humiliation during the last six years,"—a fate which he had endeavored to avert by invading her territory at the head of a rebel army and spreading desolation throughout her borders. Continuing his [illegible] and proceeding with his exposition of sound Democratic doctrine, he spoke of his own valuable services in the cause, and boasted that he had "done much to shield Kentucky from the storm that had threatened her, and was willing to-day to do as much more." That is to say, he had been a fighting rebel, and was ready to try it again. He told his Democratic associates "not to be ashamed of those boys who went out with him; they had done nothing to be ashamed of." He reminded the Democratic fathers there assembled that their sons "went away with their private [illegible]bation," and it was their duty now to "take back those Confederate boys and see that they were not discarded." From these extracts it will be seen that the speech was, in some of its parts, a model of candor and truthfulness, and that the Kentucky Democracy is strictly orthodox and perfectly faithful to the principles and memory of the late lamented Confederacy.

That eminent and faithful defender of Democratic principles, John C. Breckinridge, also received the highest encomiums on this interesting occasion. His name was proposed as a candidate for Governor, but as it was considered exceedingly doubtful whether he could properly discharge the duties of the office while sojourning in Canada, the Convention had to content itself with rapturously cheering him whenever his name was mentioned. As no rebel General could be found to accept the nomination after the withdrawal of Preston, the Convention was compelled to take a native Democrat, and Helm, a "neutrality" man, was chosen. But this was made good by putting Rodman and Smith, two rebel Colonels, on the ticket along with him. And now the Kentucky Democracy are thoroughly organized and disciplined to strike for their principles. The Copperheads of the North are hand in hand with them, and the tried friends of the Union are done for because they do not believe that these rebels are loyal! Is any better proof needed of the truth of what loyal men assert in regard to the danger to be apprehended from this party, than is furnished by the action of its State Conventions?

The Cascades Land Swindle.

Mr. George W. Johnson, once an occupant of Jail-county at the Cascades, has of late become exceedingly ambitious. He considers himself a first rate in prospect, and demands a fanciful sum for a piece of waste land on the Columbia River, swearing that even if he does not succeed in getting more, he will never take a cent less. During the Indian war of 1855–6, a small piece of land belonging to his donation claim at the Cascades was taken possession of by the Government authorities for military purposes. The land was used by the military for a time, and then abandoned. During its occupation the troops plundered its owner from the Indians and kept him from starvation. A few years after he brought in a claim for damages, (whether for the services here mentioned we are unable to say) and succeeded in getting a Military Commission to examine into the case and make him an award. Captains Gibbs and Wallen were members of this Commission. After deliberation it was agreed that Johnson should have ten thousand dollars, though some of the Board justly thought this an exorbitant sum. But Johnson had started out for a "big thing," and succeeded in getting an order for a new Commission on the case. This time the award was for eighteen thousand dollars, as the very utmost the Commission would consent to give him. It was remarked at the time that this was a very extravagant sum, but as the Government has always had to pay largely in such cases, it was agreed that the claim should be settled on this basis. Still Johnson was not satisfied. He collected numerous affidavits here and elsewhere in his favor for the purpose of showing that his land claim at the Cascades was at that time of very great value, and that his prospects were entirely ruined by the military occupation. He claimed that he had a site for a city, the only steamboat or ship (?) landing at the Cascades, and the proper and only place for a terminus for a railroad around the falls. His claim was situated at the head of ship navigation, and he had a fortune in his grasp when it was wrested from him in the manner described. Affidavits to support these preposterous pretensions were obtained in considerable numbers, some of which averred that the place was worth near half a million dollars, and that the prospects of the owner were totally destroyed by the military occupation. Armed with these and other documents calculated to perpetrate the swindle, the owner of the land went to Washington to press the matter there, and the claim which ought to have been dismissed as absurd when it was first presented, has grown by a "geometrical ratio till it now amounts to millions. There appears to be every probability that this gigantic swindle will be at least measurably successful. It is well known here that the claim has no foundation, and that the owner of the land suffered no less worth mentioning by its temporary occupation by the military. It never was a suitable site for a town, and never could, under any combination of circumstances, have become valuable for such a purpose. It is not, nor ever was, a suitable place for a landing or for a railroad terminus. The present landing is three fourths of a mile below it, and the land for which so great a sum is claimed is worth no more than any other rocky, sterile spot on the Columbia. The entire half section is not worth to-day one thousand dollars, and would not be worth it if the military forces had never set foot upon it. The scheme is simply an attempt to perpetrate a colossal swindle, and if the person who is engaged in it gets one dollar he will obtain just that much more than he ought honestly to have.

The Connecticut Millerites are getting their accessions ready for June 17th next, when they expect to "go up"—sure.—Ex

This Democratic State of Connecticut is the hotbed of all disgusting isms and horrid abominations. (Let the Copperheads be paid off in their own coin.)

All the rebel officials in New Orleans have been removed, including Johnson's special friends who were the authors of the bloody riot. The Louisiana rebels are finding Sheridan about as prompt and thorough as they found Butler.

DISGUSTED WITH THEIR FRIENDS.—The Lynchburg Virginian is beginning to understand that the will of the loyal people of the United States is to be the law of reconstruction. But it complains bitterly that this is the case, and censures the President and the Supreme Court for not enforcing the opposite rule, just as if they could do it in opposition to the will of the people. It says:

It would seem that the late decision of the Supreme Court of the United States against the constitutionality of the test oath, is treated with contempt even by the Cabinet officers at Washington. They still require that oath to be taken by all their officers, just as if no decision had been rendered against it. Of course, if the President's own friends and leading officers disregard the decision of the court, they should not complain if the Radicals treat both the court and its decisions with contempt. In fact, if the decisions of the court are worth nothing, Congress would do well to abolish it. We fear that the Radicals have succeeded too well in overawing the President and the court, and that they have lost the nerve, if not the will, to stand up for the Constitution and the right. The decision of the Supreme Court has not been respected either in or out of Congress.

The people of the South will yet find how utterly powerless they are to escape from the rule of Congress. Neither the President nor the Supreme Court, nor both combined, can render them more than a temporary service. Whatever those two departments of the Government may do, the question still remains in the hands of the legislative branch, and must finally be adjusted and decided by it. No power can take the case out of the hands of the representatives of the people.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.—Most of the nations of Europe are countenancing the discontinuance of the death penalty. Italy lately abolished it altogether. No executions have been allowed in Portugal and Switzerland for a long period. Life imprisonment is the penalty for the highest crimes. In Holland, Belgium, France, Prussia, Austria, Sweden and Denmark not one third of the convictions for murder have of late years been followed by executions. Offenders, of course, are not released; the penalties are commuted. In England the same system is even more generally practised. Between 1822 and 1832, 1,280 persons were condemned to death, and but 59 were executed. Only 11 persons were hanged in that country between 1852 and 1862.

An English writer named Gould has made an effort to pull down the name of William Tell from the temple of fame. He makes him exist only in fiction, and, if we may believe his narrative, proves that the great archer of song and story never shot an arrow or fought fight for freedom. Either the world has long been egregiously humbugged or Gould is trying to humbug it now.

VETO OF THE RECONSTRUCTION BILL.—The New York Herald's Washington correspondence, of February 28th, says:

A gentleman well known to the political world, who has been a member of two Cabinets, and who served as a General in the rebel army, has been in this city for a few weeks past, and has had several interviews with President Johnson in reference to the question of Southern reconstruction. He has been using his utmost endeavors to prevail upon the President to sign the Military Government bill now awaiting his action. He says that although the bill is not as favorable to the South as he believes the circumstances will warrant, yet it contains, without doubt, the very best terms that they can expect, and the condition of the South is such that something absolutely must be done to adjust this vexed question, and that very speedily. This gentleman states that very soon after the President received the Military Government bill he had a conversation with him on the subject, during which the President assured him that he could sign the bill. The next day he saw the President, who informed him that he had changed his mind about signing the bill, and thought he would drop it into his pocket, in accordance with the advice of the elder Blair. On the day following, in the course of another interview, the President informed him that he had finally concluded to veto the bill, and assured him that the message was quite voluminous, was a master piece of argument, and was replete with extracts from legal authorities. He further states that Attorney General Stanberry and ex Attorney General Black have lent their assistance in framing the veto message. He gave it as his candid opinion that Mr. Johnson is totally incapable to fill the position he occupies, inasmuch as he is too much under the control of his Cabinet and one or two outside rings, and he firmly believes that the President would have signed the Reconstruction bill had it not been for the influence of Mr. Seward and Mr. McCulloch.

THE NEW ORLEANS CUSTOM HOUSE.—The New Orleans Riot Committee report in reference to the New Orleans Custom House, that it does not appear that Mr. Kellogg, the Collector, has appointed persons whom he had reasons to believe had been in the rebel service, and he had not deemed it his duty to inquire as to the antecedents of applicants for positions, but that he had removed persons employed in the Custom House when it appeared that they had been engaged in the rebel service, and that he had generally exercised care in all departments in the interest of the Government and loyalty. The Collector, in a letter to the committee says of the two hundred and fifty two employed in the Custom House, seventy seven has served in the United States army, seventeen in the navy, and twenty-eight have been connected with the army as clerks, or nearly fifty per cent. of the entire number. All the regular appointees have taken the oath required by law. Some persons who had served in the rebel cause obtained appointments under cover of the test oath, but whenever cases of the kind were brought to the attention of the Collector he dismissed them.

The Eastport, Maine, Sentinel states that the Island of Campo Bello, celebrated as the spot where Fenian squadrons were first "sat in the field," during the late attempt to capture British North America, has been sold to a Mr. Seymour of New York, for $8,000. Mr. Seymour has been engaged in mining upon the island, or rather investigating the mineral resources of the island for several years. The sale includes the whole island, except about eighty acres.

CHICAGO, April 5.—The Times says customs receipts for March are sixteen millions gold, against only eleven millions in same month last year.

Senator Nesmith will probably decline the Austrian mission. He did not seek the nomination.

A morning paper publishes a report of an interview with John S. Durant, but it excites very little interest. Durant denies that he used disguise in his ex ape from Canada. He went on board the steamer in citizen clothes. He severely denounces St. Marie, who betrayed him. Durant is in excellent health and good spirits.

The Attorney General has not given an opinion in Sheridan's power to remove officers under the reconstruction law. He says the question is not before him in an official form.

The Tribune says the nomination of Nesmith to the Austrian mission excites great surprise. Mr. Seward stated positively that the place would be given to Foster. The friends of ex-Senator Harris had almost equally positive assurance from the President.

LOUIS A GARNETT..... President and Manager.
JOHN HEWSTON Jr. ..Chemist and Superintendent.

THIS COMPANY HAVING GREATLY enlarged their Refining Works, will introduced many other important improvements, are pleased to announce that they feel warranted in again reducing materially their terms of doing business.

THE TARIFF OF CHARGES

Which they now submit to the public—considered with reference to the cost of material and labor—is lower than in any other part of the world, and secures to the mining interest of this coast an important increase in both the mining and commercial value of bullion.

Their charges hereafter will be as follows:

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED GOLD BARS.

One-eighth of one per cent. (less than a quarter) for all amounts over $1,000, and two dollars for any smaller sum. Returns made in twenty-four hours.

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED SILVER BARS.

Two dollars for the gold contained, up to $1,000, and one eighth of one per cent. for all amounts over that sum, and one per cent. on the silver contained. Returns made in twenty-four hours.

FOR REFINING DEPOSITS MADE FOR COIN OR FINE BARS.

On bullion under 300 parts gold, 2 cents per ounce.
On bullion from 300 @ 600 parts gold, 4 cents per ounce.
On bullion from 600 @ 750 parts gold, 6 cents per ounce.
On bullion from 750 @ 940½ parts gold, 8 cents per ounce.
Above 950 the only charge will be for coinage. But those will be no charge for refining less than two dollars.

FOR COINING GOLD.

This charge will be the same as at the Mint—a half of one per cent—and which is paid by us to that institution. But there will be no charge in future for making fine gold or silver bars from bullion refined by us.

RETURNS IN COIN IN FORTY-EIGHT HOURS.

Silver contained in deposits for coin will be accounted for at the same rate customary at the Mint.

Gold bars of other Assayers, in good standing, will be cashed by us at the highest market rates.

Dust and bullion can be forwarded to us from any part of the country, and returns made through Wells, Fargo & Co's Express.

CHARGES AT U. S. BRANCH MINT.

For the convenience of those not familiar with the terms of the Mint, we subjoin the tariff of charges now in force at that institution:

For refining bullion under 300 parts gold, 8 cents per ounce.
For refining bullion from 300 @ 600 parts gold, 8 cents per ounce.
For refining bullion from 600 @ 750 parts gold, 7 cents per ounce.
For refining bullion from 750 @ 830 parts gold, 11 cents per ounce.
For refining bullion from 830 @ 940½ parts gold, 14 cents per ounce.

The charge for coinage is half of one per cent., and the charge for making fine silver bars, the same.

Comparing the net value of deposits for coinage, with the proceeds of unparted gold bars sold in the market—assuming that the bars have cost ½ of one per cent—they must be sold at the following par rates to equal the return which would have been made had they been deposited for coinage:

850 par to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents.
845 par to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN.

The WEEKLY OREGONIAN is published this morning. It contains the latest telegraphic news from the East and California—a selection of the best articles appearing in THE DAILY OREGONIAN—full and reliable news from the Mines, and the most copious commercial information published by any paper in the State.

The average amount of reading matter in the WEEKLY OREGONIAN is double that published by any other journal in Oregon, and in the particular of Commercial statistics and the Markets we aim to make it the most reliable and more especially in matters pertaining to Oregon interests.

Single copies 12½ cents, or $3 00 per year, to any part of the United States, or British Columbia.

VANCOUVER ITEMS.—We clip the following items from the Register: In pursuance of an order from the District Court, Sheriff Moore of this county will start on Monday for Steilacoom, for the purpose of conveying to the penitentiary at that place, Tom Wilson, the notorious robber and desperado.... Two unimproved lots situated on the corner of Fourth and Main street in this town were sold last week for $1,700 in coin. They were purchased by Dr. Wait, who intends to make permanent improvements thereon, probably during the ensuing season.... Vigilance No. 1, is the name of the new Hook and Ladder Company, lately organized in this town. The following gentlemen are the officers elected for the ensuing year: Chas. Hall, Foreman; W. H McGrath, 1st Assistant; Chas. T. Ellis, 2d Assistant; H. Cochran, 3d Assistant; N. J. Battersby, Secretary; M. A. Tubbs, Treasurer.... An ordinance was passed by the Council on Monday night providing for the organization of a Fire Department. A chief engineer, two assistants and a Board of Delegates are to be elected on the first Monday of May, who are to govern the Department. The Department is to consist of Vancouver No. 1, General Allen No. 1 and Vigilance Hook and Ladder Company No. 1. Each company elects three of its members and all of the members so chosen will constitute the Board of Delegates.... The St. Charles saloon of this place was entered on Tuesday night of this week and numerous articles were stolen therefrom. No clue to the thieves has been obtained.... The Good Templars in this place are very successful in their favorable undertaking. We understand that both Lodges are having frequent and numerous additions to their ranks by initiation. This town affords a good field for labor.

SCHOOL REPORT.—Mr. O. S. Frambes, Principal of the Public Schools in District No. 1, furnishes the following report for the quarter ending April 5th, 1867:

Primary Department—Miss F. A. Holman, Preceptress, Miss Mary Young, Assistant, number of males enrolled, 74; females, 74; average daily attendance, 116.

Total number of pupils enrolled, 650; average daily attendance, 476.

TIMBER LANDS.—Oregon is favored with a mild climate, and, relatively speaking, yet it is a rare thing to see bundles of Oregon growth in the markets below. In New York city has green vegetables now, and New Jersey and on Long Island. They are not hot houses, it is true, and could be grown in no other way; but those who pay little attention to such productions, make money out of it. Hot houses certainly not cost more here than near New York, and they could probably be constructed for less. There is little doubt but that the raising of vegetables in this way could be made profitable. There is a demand in the markets are of California growth. Potatoes at $3 per lb., lettuce (more insufferable), cabbages at 25 cents per pound, and celery at $1 50 per doz.; and only give a wide margin for profit to the grower, and there are large quantities of such articles sold every day. They are not fresh, either, nor so palatable as they would be if grown here and put in the market a day or two, just from the hot house. Many of the articles that we get from now till June or July are of California growth. All the money spent for these might be saved to this State, if our people would direct a little in the direction we have indicated.

AN OLD SETTLER GOING.—Captain J. M. Keelor of Polk county will leave Oregon to-day by the steamer Columbia, intending to reside hereafter in New York City. Captain K. is one of the old settlers in Oregon, having arrived here in the spring of 1851. He was for some years connected with the educational institutions of Washington county. At the breaking out of the rebellion he was in one of the Eastern States and among the first to volunteer for the defence of the country. He served for some time with Gen. Banks and was with him in his retreat down the Shenandoah Valley. Early in 1863 he returned to Oregon as Provost Marshal for this State. Shortly after the close of the rebellion, he was mustered out of service, at which time he has been engaged in mercantile business at Salem. The Captain is a genial gentleman and will leave in this country a host of warm personal friends.

COUNTY COURT.—This Court is still in session, though very little business remains to be done. Since our last report, the following proceedings were had: M. Kelly vs. Wm. Lee; suit against J. S. Ruckle for $448 40, judgment against Harbaugh & Lee. E. C. Stanwood, judgment against J. S. Ruckle for $304 30. J. M. Breck, judgment against T. Allen, $377 25. W. W. Page, judgment against J. S. Ruckle for $304 30. J. M. Breck, judgment against T. Allen, $377 25. W. W. Page, judgment against J. S. Ruckle for $304 30. The case of Newman vs. H. Martin & Co., on the docket from the 15th. Time allowed John McCraken, executor of estate J. D. Madan, till the May term to file inventory. Viewers were appointed to report upon a petition for a road in East Portland. In the matter of the estate of C. S. Hamilton, deceased, Wm. J. Carter, special administrator, an order was made for the sale of special administrator. In the estate of Chas. J. Bird, deceased, —— Warren, administrator, order of publication of notice of final settlement.

OUR WOOLEN MILLS.—During the current week, the City Woolen Mills has received from the Worcester Works six new looms, two spinning jacks and other pieces of machinery. The workmen in the mill are engaged in setting them up. In a few days they will have in operation 25 looms, most of the latest patterns, 8 spinning jacks, 6 sets of cards and other machinery to match, with a capacity to turn into cloth, flannels, blankets, etc., 600,000 pounds of wool, running day and night.

NEWS.—In his work on America, De Tocqueville remarks: A newspaper can drop the same idea into a thousand minds at the same moment. A book is an adviser who does not require to be consulted, who comes to you every day of common life, without distracting your private affairs. Newspapers, therefore, become necessary in proportion as men are more equal and individuals more to be feared, because they only serve to protect freedom which their importance; they maintain civilization.

—Mr. F. Roman, bookseller, on First street, has on our table copies of "Observations on the Scientific Study of Human Nature," "Chinese and English Phrase Book," and "Played Out," a new novel on an old theme by Annie Thomas. We shall examine them at our leisure. Meantime, Mr. Roman has our thanks for the favor.

PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER.

THE GREAT FAMILY MEDICINE OF THE AGE!

Pain Killer taken internally, should be adulterated with milk or water, and sweetened with sugar if desired, or made into a syrup with molasses. For a cough, a few drops on sugar eaten will be more effective than anything else. For sore throat, gargle the throat with a mixture of Pain Killer and water, and relief is immediate and the cure positive.

It should not be forgotten that the Pain Killer is equally as good to take internally as to use externally. Each bottle is wrapped with full directions for its use. Dyspepsia can be and is cured every day by the use of Perry Davis' Pain Killer. This is the most wonderful and valuable medicine ever known for this disease. Its action upon the system is entirely different from any other preparation known. The patient, while taking this medicine, may eat anything the appetite craves. Sold by all medicine dealers. mh20d&wlm

THE GLORY OF MAN IS STRENGTH. —Therefore the nervous and debilitated should immediately use HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU.

Bronchitis or Chronic Sore Throat.—It is attended with irritation of the bronchial tubes, which convey the air we breathe into the lungs. The irritation produces sore throat, hoarseness, coughing, and sometimes spitting of matter streaked with blood. If it is neglected it will extend down to the lungs, and settles into confirmed consumption. ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will be found a most valuable remedy for arresting this disease and prevent its running into the consumption. For sale by dealers in family medicine generally. ta20

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU and IMPROVED ROSE WASH cures secret and delicate disorders in all their stages, at little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience and no exposure. It is pleasant in taste and odor, immediate in its action, and free from all injurious properties.

Female complaints should be cured, as they surely can be, by a few doses of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU gives health and vigor to the frame and bloom to the pallid cheek. Debility is accompanied by many alarming symptoms, and if no treatment is submitted to, consumption, insanity, or epileptic fits ensue.

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN is published this morning. It contains the latest telegraphic news from the East and California—a selection of the best articles appearing in THE DAILY OREGONIAN,—full and reliable news from the Mines, and the most copious commercial information published by any paper in the State.

The average amount of reading matter in the WEEKLY OREGONIAN is double that published by any other journal in Oregon; and in the particular of Commercial statistics and the Markets we aim to make it the most reliable and more specially in matters pertaining to Oregon interests.

Single copies 12½ cents, or $3 00 per year, to any part of the United States, or British Columbia.

VARIOUS ITEMS.—We clip the following items from the Register: In pursuance of an order from the District Court, Sheriff Moreo of this county will start on Monday for Stellacoom, for the purpose of conveying to the penitentiary at that place, Tom Wilson, the notorious robber and desperado.....Two unimproved lots situated on the corner of Fourth and Main street in this town were sold last week for $1,700 in coin. They were purchased by Dr. Wall, who intends to make permanent improvements thereon, probably during the ensuing season.....Pilgrance No. 1, is the name of the new Rosk and Ladder Company, lately organized in this town. The following named gentlemen are the officers elected for the present term: Wm. Baker, Foreman; W. H McGrath, 1st Assistant; Chas. T. Stiles, 2d Assistant, H. Cochran, 1st Steward; J. J. Battersby, Secretary; M. A Tubbs, Treasurer.....An ordinance was passed by the Council on Monday night providing for the organization of a Fire Department. A chief engineer, two assistants and a board of Delegates are to be elected on the first Monday in May, who are to govern the Department. The Department consists of Vancouver No. 1, General Allen No. 1, Pilgrance Hook and Ladder Company No. 1. Each company elects three of its members and all of the members so chosen will constitute the Board of Delegates.....The St. Charles saloon of this place was entered on Tuesday night of this week and numerous articles were stolen therefrom. No clue to the thieves has been obtained.....The Good Templars in this place are very successful in their laudable undertaking. We understand that both lodges are having frequent and numerous additions to their ranks, made by initiation. This town affords a good field for temperance.

WHEAT.—Oregon is favored with a mild climate, relatively speaking, yet it is a rare thing to see a sack of Oregon growth in the markets below. New York city has green vegetables now, and New Jersey and Long Island. They are fine productions, it is true, and could be grown so in either way; but those who pay their attention to matters of productions, make money out of it. Hot beds are certainly not cost more here than near New York, and they could probably be constructed for less. There is little doubt but that the raising of vegetables in this way could be made profitable. There is a ready market in the markets are of California growth. Potatoes at $2 per ctl. Onions (sweet handfuls), cabbages 5 cents per pound, and celery at $1 50 per doz. Hot beds would give a wide margin for profit to the grower. Besides there are large quantities of such articles sold in this city every day. They are not fresh, either, nor so palatable as they would be if grown here and put in the table the day or two, just from the hot house. Any vegetables that we eat from now till June or July will be of California growth. All the money spent for these might be saved to this State, if our people would devote a little in the direction we have indicated.

AN OLD SETTLER GOING.—Captain J. M Keelor formerly will leave Oregon to-day by the steamer Oregon, for California, intending to reside hereafter in New York City. Captain K. is one of the old settlers in Oregon, having arrived here in the spring of 1851. He was for some years identified with the educational institutions of Washington county. At the breaking out of the rebellion, he was among the first volunteer for the defence of this country. He served for some time as Quartermaster and was with him in his retreat through Snodgrass Valley. Early in 1863 he returned home and was appointed Provost Marshal for this State. Shortly after the close of the rebellion, he was mustered out of service, which time he has been engaged in mercantile business at Salem. The Captain is a genial gentleman and will leave in this country a host of warm personal friends.

CIRCUIT COURT.—This Court is still in session, though very little business remains to be done. Since our last report the following proceedings were had: M. Kelly has judgment against J. B. Ruckle for $448 49, and A. B. Hammond, judgment against Harbaugh & Co. for $304 30. J. M. Brock, judgment against T. Cox for $321 25. W. W. Page, judgment against J. S. Smith, for $257. The case of Newman vs. H. Martin & Co., will be tried on the 15th. Time allowed John McCraken, executor of estate of J. D. Madden, till the May term to file inventory. Viewers were appointed to report upon a petition for a road in East Portland. In the matter of the estate of C. N. Humiston, deceased, Thomas J. Carter, special administrator, an order was made for a license of special administrator. In the estate of Chas. J. Bird, deceased, —— Warren, administrator of publication of notice of final settlement.

CITY WOOLEN MILLS.—During the current week, the City Woolen Mills has received from the Worcester Looms Works six new looms, two spinning jacks and other pieces of machinery. The workmen in charge are engaged in setting them up. In a few days the factory will have in operation 25 looms, most of them for the latest patterns, 8 spinning jacks, 6 sets of cards and other machinery to match, with a capacity of 600 yards of cloth, flannels, blankets, etc., 600,000 pounds of wool, running day and night.

PRESS.—If his work on America, De Tocqueville says that newspapers in a newspaper can drop the same thing into a thousand minds at the same moment. A pamphlet is an adviser who does not require to be sought, but who comes to you every day of common business, discussing your private affairs. Newspapers, therefore, become necessary in proportion as men become equal and individuals more to be feared. It is true that they only serve to protect freedom would be in proportion to their importance; they maintain civilization.

NEW BOOK.—Mr. F. Roman, bookseller, on First street, has upon our table copies of "Observations on the Sciences and Study of Human Nature," "Chinese and English Dictionary," and "Played Out," a new novel by an old author, by Annie Thomas. We shall examine them at our first leisure. Meantime, Mr. Roman has our thanks for the favor.

I. O. O. F.—Oregon Branch No. 1, of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows' Benevolence Advancers, was organized at Salem on the 1st inst., with the following officers: A. M. Hurlbut, Director; S. Friedman, Librarian; A. C. Helm, Treasurer; Jos. L. Carter, Secretary; Daniel B. Turner, Conductor; Miles M. Miller, Conductor; J. B. McLane, Sentinel; Arthur M. Cox, D. W.

WHEAT SHIPMENTS.—Ayer, steamer Alert from Oregon City, Friday, April 5th: 1677 qr sks flour, 3 qr sks potatoes, 19 gunnies bacon, 8 bf bbls produce, 3 bbls dry goods, 3 boxes produce, 137 bags feed, 21 bf bbls apples, 1 case merchandise, lot of flowers and 1 cow.

POLICE COURT.—Wm. Lock, picked up drunk Saturday night, on the sidewalk, was yesterday morning fined $5, having been in jail long enough to get sober. The Chinaman charged with illegal voting was tried, and decision was reserved till this day.

MAIL MATTER.—Since our item of yesterday, concerning the stay of Mr Earle in this city, we learn that he will leave here so as to preach on the 9th and 10th at Oregon City, and will go to Salem on the 11th, where he expects to remain a week or more.

OIL RANCH.—The telegraphic dispatches of the 2d inst. from the regular massacre of Col. Hankin and eight men at Ft. Buford, on the Plains. The Register says, Col. Rankin was some years ago a Commissary Clerk under Gen. Ingalls at Ft. Vancouver.

COURT MARTIAL.—A general Court Martial has been in session during the week at Ft. Vancouver, for the trial of Lt. Lt. Converse, late in command at Ft Walla Walla. Gen. Wilcox is President of the Court and Capt Hazlett, Judge Advocate.

THE CONGO TROUPE.—The Vancouver Register speaks well of the performances of the Congo Troupe on Thursday night. The Troupe is composed of several members of the late Tanner Troupe of this city—Graham at the head.

—Mr Richardson says he will sell, to-day, a large lot of groceries, and then a large lot of—groceries, after which he will offer a few—groceries, and if anybody wants tea he will sell some—groceries.

GENERAL'S VOUCHERS.—We are requested by Col. E. D. Rabbitt, Asst'n Q. M Gen., to say that vouchers up to the 31st day of December, 1866 if presented at his office before Wednesday, the 10th, will be paid.

ARRIVAL.—One or two large droves of cattle and a large number of sheep arrived at the O S N Co's wharf yesterday, en route for the country east of the mountains.

THE RISE.—The river which had risen early in the week nearly two feet, is again falling. It is now about a foot lower than on Wednesday morning.

—See messages in the telegraph office for A. Bisson and J. D. Thornton.

The University

HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION

THE LANDS OF THE ABOVE-NAMED ASSOCIATION are situated in San Francisco and are eligibly and most desirably located, adjoining the grounds purchased by the Presbyterian University Society, on which College buildings are to be at once erected. The site is less than thirty minutes ride from Montgomery street; lying just west or back of the lands of the South San Francisco Homestead and Railroad Association and the Bay View Park, almost within a stone's throw of ST. MARY'S COLLEGE.

The tract will require little or no grading, there being scarcely a single lot on which it would not benefit to build without any change of grade. It commands a Beautiful View of the Bay,

And its opposite shore, and has a call of extreme richness. So great are the natural attractions of the spot that very many of the wealthy citizens of San Francisco have already purchased whole blocks in the same tract, and design building residences thereon.

The Rev. E. Thomas, D. D.,

Is President of the Association; Lester L Robinson, formerly Vice President of the Sacramento Railroad Company, is the Treasurer, and Thomas H. Lewis, formerly of Portland, Secretary.

Four lots, 2x120 feet each, constitute a share, reading $316—paid in monthly installments of $10 each, after the first payment of $10 has been made.

Maps and books giving full information of the workings of the Association can be obtained at the store of J. L. PARRISH & CO.

It is an easy and a cheap way for young men to procure property which will in a few years make them independent.

G. VENARD,

CHARTRES COFFEE!

Manufactory Established in June, 1851.

STEAM POWER, NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions; the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandize, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees the counterfeiting the number of his labels by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of it consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Each package bears the signature of G. VENARD.

R. G. SNEATH,

Wholesale Grocer,

32 FRONT STREET, PORTLAND,

Has been appointed Agent for the Sale of VENARD'

Matters Matrimonial.

Her feet, they are so small,
So delicate her tread,
Daisies do not bend at all
When she walks overhead;
But each looks up, and falls in love
With Psyche's tiny foot above.

She walks with such an art,
And steps so daintily,
If she should tread upon my heart,
'Twould still unbroken be;
Unless 't were by the loveliness
Which Psyche's tiny foot possess.

The Perils of "Paying Attention"

Eligible bachelors complain that scarcity of marrying men has much the same effect upon the match-making mother as scarcity of food upon the wolf. It makes her at once more ferocious and more cunning. Her invitations to croquet parties and little dinners are so constant and so pressing that it is scarcely possible for her destined prey to refuse them all without manifest rudeness, and yet it is equally hard for him to go without being judiciously maneuvered into "paying attention" to the one young lady who has been selected to make him happy for life. The chivalrous and graceful synonyme for courtship in this world speaks volumes for the serious nature of the risks which he runs. The truly gallant assumption which underlies it, that an Englishman pays "attention" to a woman when he has a solid business-like offer of marriage to make her, not only puts a formidable weapon into the hands of the match maker, but also leaves her victim without the most effectual means of protection. The national gallantry towards woman upon which the Frenchman so plumes himself, may be as your true Briton declares, a poor sort of quality enough—a mere grimace and trick of the lips—not genuine stuff from the heart, having much the same relation to true chivalry that his biere has to beer, or his potage to soup. But at any rate it has this advantage, that it enables him to pay any sort of compliments to a woman without risk of committing himself, or of being misunderstood.

If an Englishman asks a young lady after her sore throat, or her invalid grandmother, and throws into his voice that tone of eager interest or tender sympathy which a polite Frenchman would assume as a matter of course, he is at once afraid of matrimonial designs upon her. He is obliged to be as formal and business-like in his mode of address as the lawyer's clerk, who added the end of a too ardent love-letter the saving clause "without prejudice." We have heard of a young lady who confided to her bosom friend one day that that morning expected a proposal, and was duly pressed for her reason blushingly avowed that the night before a gentleman had asked her whether she was fond of poetry, and that those were the only two words that had ever passed between them in a private room.

The problem would be to determine, not what is the least possible number of dances, calls or presents which may justify the intervention of a big brother or heavy father, but what number warrants the assumption that the flirtation has gone out of the frivolous into the serious stage. For instance, may expose a man who asked what are his "intentions," where a need not imply that he has any. The match-maker considers only the first and ideal match maker would lay more stress on the second. But still, in any case, there is a tendency to treat the practice of "attention" in the spirit of extra science as the most one ray of hope to those who combat, do what they will, they cannot escape. They pay this dangerous tribute. The tonic must sooner or later beat fruit in a generation based on the code of courtship (whether written or unwritten does not much matter), prescribing the number and character of the "attentions" to their adaptation to dancing, croquet, cracker pulling and other convenient prelude for flirtation, which virtually amount to an offer of marriage.—Saturday Review.

THE DEATH FROM TRICHINA SPINALIS.—In examining the corpse of a pauper at the Twenty-second Medical College, New York, recently, the students unexpectedly found evidences that a worm had been devoured by the worm which the faculty style trichinæ. The latter, when subjected to microscopic examination, proved to be literally alive with minute destroyers, and they were found in the kidneys everywhere in the muscular tissue. The body was that of a woman of whom the authorities know nothing beyond the fact that she was a pauper, and died soon after being taken to Bellevue Hospital, and, as a subject, had been purloined of an unknown malady, surrendered to the surgeons for dissection. Trichinæ in enormous numbers having been found in the body, the surgeons strove to ascertain something of the history of the woman's life, hoping to add to their stock of information regarding the origin of these destructive worms, but the symptoms of a sufferer afflicted by them in life were but fruitless, and all that is known is a carcass which worms contributed to feed for the dreaded Worm.

The trichinæ was first discovered in the human body in 1842, and since that time medical men have diligently sought their origin, and some time ago, which will expel them from the body; but for the faculty have reached no definite conclusion, or if they have, the results of their labors have not been committed to print. All the authors, however, agree in conveying to the public the idea that the hog, the scavenger of the earth, is the quadruped through which trichinæ enter the human stomach. In the emphatic words of Dr. Casat, of Berlin, "the swine is the only room where the worm waits to be received into the human temple, there to work its destructive changes." Says Dr. Flora, of Chicago, "cases are coming to us daily from different parts of the country of trichinous pork, and at the death of a German lady Jn reported in the papers of this city the existence of this parasite was found. Thorough cooking and thorough cooking have been insisted upon in this article as preventives of trichinæ in the human body, but the only infallible one is to obey the Jewish law, and eat no pork." Another writer says: "Some call trichinæ a new disease; others deny its existence altogether; but the disease is not new, simply the knowledge of its true cause is new. It was once quite common in Berlin for cases of ham poison, a substance which has since been isolated. The disease was observed to be due to this unknown agent; but all attempts to isolate the poison failed." There is an interesting item on record where a number of gentlemen had dined together, one of whom being engaged with his after dinner pipe, did not eat himself at the time, but simply drank a glass of wine, the rest of whom ate ham with their claret. The latter fell sick, and some died, while the former remained well. At Hottstadt, near the Hartz Mountain in Germany, about three years ago, 780 persons sat to a dinner consisting of sausage and vegetables. No less than eighty-three of the above mentioned persons died within a few weeks. A case came to light in this city, in 1864, in which a whole family was poisoned by eating trichinous pork.

It seems to be conceded that if man does not take all trichinæ from pork, it is true that the hog is a trichinous quadruped, a single ounce of whose flesh, if infected, may introduce to the human system a hundreds of these worms, which may soon reproduce their species, to the extent of millions, and gnaw their way into the vitals.

HOW A NEW YORK PAPER IS MANNED.—The following is from the Bulletin's New York letter:

While on the subject of newspaper men and the newspaper press of this city, it may perhaps be of interest to some of your readers to learn how one of our first class dailies is made up and "manned"—how many men it takes to carry on the editorial department, what salaries they get, etc. We will take, for instance, the Daily Times, which so far as regards the standing, character and education of its "staff," as a whole, is the best "manned" paper in New York. The Times has in its editorial department 25 men on fixed salaries—not including reporters for Brooklyn and Jersey, who also have fixed salaries, or correspondents out of town, but men employed exclusively in New York and whose duties require them to be daily at the office. Their work is distributed as follows: writing editorials exclusively, 5; general editorial manager, 1; looking over day exchanges and making up "Weekly" and "Semi-weekly," 1; looking over night exchanges, 1; supervising telegraph, 1; general night manager who attends to the "make-up" of the paper, 1; looking over foreign exchanges, 1; agricultural editor, 1; financial and commercial editors, 2; managing city editor, 1; general reporters, 4; police reporters, 2; law reporters, 3; theatrical reporter, 1—Total, 25. The regular correspondents who receive salaries are 2 in Washington, 1 in Albany (during the session of the Legislature) 1 in London, 2 in Paris, 1 in Munich. Correspondents in other parts of the country, North and South—in Havana, Mexico, Panama, San Francisco, etc. are paid by the letter. The salaries of the men employed in the city range from $25 to $75 per week—the average being about $40 per week. Few good newspaper men, however, rely exclusively on their salaries for support, but most of them make something additional, and many of them an equal or greater amount, by writing for the weekly papers and magazines, and corresponding for newspapers abroad etc.

The staff of the Herald is larger than that of the Times, and numbers from 35 to 40 men, but the rate of men employed is inferior to the Times and the average salaries are not as high. The same remark both as to the number of men and their salaries will apply to the Tribune, though that paper employs as a general thing a better class of men than the Herald.

The evening papers, with the exception of the Express, employ about ten men each on the editorial department, and pay salaries ranging from $15 to $40 per week. Most of the reporters for evening papers also do night reporting for morning papers, either on on a fixed salary or by the column.

The total number of men employed on the editorial departments of the various daily papers of this city is not far from 250.

A SPIRITUAL MANIFESTATION.—Not long since a kind-hearted and generous man died, leaving behind a fearful, jealous, sombre-minded wife to mourn his loss. After the poor man was dead she began to exhibit signs of repentance, and acknowledged to her friends that she had done her poor, dear husband a great wrong while upon earth. She was advised to visit a medium and ask his forgiveness, which she did. The medium called up the departed spirit of the husband, when the following dialogue took place: Wife—Is this the spirit of my dear husband? Answer—It is. Wife—Will you forgive me for my wickedness towards you while on earth? Answer—Yes. Wife—Are you more happy now than you were when living? Answer—Much happier. Wife—Do you desire to return to earth? Answer—No! Wife—Where are you? Answer—In h–ll! Exit bereaved widow.—Boston Herald.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

PORTLAND, FRIDAY, 2 P. M., April 5, 1867.

Gold in New York opened yesterday at a decline of ⅛ from the quotations of the day before and closed at ⅛ lower. Legal Tenders are firm at 74¼@75.

In our local trade we have few important changes to note. In prospect of an advance in freights, dealers are moving cautiously, and are not disposed to make many changes in figures till the rates of transportation are known. On the down freight it is expected to pay from $3 to $5 per ton, which will of course necessitate the paying of a smaller price to the country for its produce. Notwithstanding this fact, there is no hesitation in taking the whole amount of flour now offering. In groceries, there is a slight tendency to higher figures, which is referable to the prospective advance in freight. Until the question of the cost of transportation is settled however, it is impossible to quote with precision. Business for the week has been light and the indications for an immediate opening of the spring trade are by no means flattering.

The stocks of dry goods are quite full and trade is becoming steadier with a little greater activity. It is the general opinion that prices in New York have touched their lowest figure for the season and, consequently, dealers here are holding their stocks firm at quotations.

The various commercial and market reports of San Francisco, of March 28 to 30, have the following quotations of produce: "Flour—300 bbls McMinnville (Oregon) in quake at $4 92½@4 95 per bbl; 600 do, for China, per Orizaba, 200 do, at $5 12½, and 300 do, at $5 25; 300 do, Imperial, all there was in the market, at these rates, for same market, at $5 50; 1,000 qr sks, Oregon extra, at $4 75 and 1,000 do at $5 per bbl. The steamer Continental on her last trip from Portland brought 6,177 qr sks from Oregon, all of which have been taken for the China market. Fruit—Apples are abundant; 3,700 boxes Oregon ex-Continental, sold at an average price of $1 85 per box by the invoice. The following wholesale prices are furnished by J. W. Gale and Co.: Apples—Choice, $2@2 25 per box; common, $1 25@1 50 do. Pears—Easter Beurre, $3 50 per box; Pound, $2@2 50 do.
